

DETROIT AUTO TIEUP ENDS MONDAY

NATION-WIDE
'PHONE STRIKE
VOTE ASSUREDSERVICE PARALYZED
FOR FOUR HOURS
BY STOPPAGE

New York, Oct. 5. (AP)—Telephone operators left their posts today for four hours in the country's first nationwide tieup of that type of communication, voted to request a strike vote under the War Labor Disputes Act, and then went back to work.

Joseph Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, independent, which called the stoppage, said in Washington tonight that reports he had received showed a strike vote was desired.

He told a news conference in Washington that the request for the vote probably would be made within 15 days. The vote would be taken 30 days after the request was made.

From 2 p. m. (EST) until six o'clock—a period when 25 per cent of long distance calls are made, according to a management spokesman—the operators, maintenance men and clerks absented themselves from their jobs.

When they returned, the American Telephone and Telegraph company said they would not be paid for the time they stayed away.

Union officials said more than 200,000 persons participated in the demonstration, which prevented telephone communication between the states and with several foreign countries in all but emergency and priority calls.

It was called in protest against a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner's report recommending dissolution of the Western Electric Employees Union at Kearney, N. J., an affiliate of the federation.

CALLS CUT DOWN

Detroit, Oct. 5. (AP)—Eighty-five per cent of the Bell Telephone company operator's on duty today in Michigan staged a four-hour walkout, part of a nation-wide work stoppage.

Company officials said a sharp reduction in the number of calls made effects of the stoppage in Michigan less crippling than anticipated.

There are some 14,000 operators in Michigan.

At Detroit, the operators voted unanimously in favor of a national strike vote. Some 3,000 operators attended the meeting.

About 95 per cent of the plant men in the state walked out at 2 p. m. as scheduled. The commercial and accounting departments, he added, were virtually unaffected.

Men in supervisory and executive posts helped operate the switchboards to handle local emergency calls and essential long distance calls.

The work stoppage in the Michigan Bell system was called by the Michigan affiliate of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, which is protesting a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner's ruling. The examiner had found the Western Electric Employees association at Kearney, N. J., an NFWA affiliate, to be company dominated and ordered its dissolution.

FIRE LOSS LIGHT

Lansing, Oct. 5. (AP)—Nine forest fires during September burned six acres of wood and grass land bringing the year's total to 16,992 acres burned by 795 fires, the state conservation department reported today.

Over Million Pay
Tribute To Nimitz
Who Whipped Japs

BY TOM REEDY

Washington, Oct. 5. (AP)—The man who chased the Japanese fleet all the way from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo Bay got the reward of a warrior's lifetime today.

Five-star Admiral Chester W. Nimitz "reported" to headquarters for new orders now that his fighting assignment is completed, and was immediately caught up in a swirl of tribute never equalled in the memory of this capital.

A million people turned out to say "well done" in their various ways—cheers, howls, whistles, screeches, smiles and waves.

President Truman said "well done" with an award of a Gold Star in lieu of a third distinguished service medal.

Congress said "well done" at a joint session.

The Navy turned the town into a sea of gold braid, the skies were black with a thousand planes flying in formations that spelled out "Nimitz."

Bands of the Navy, the Marine Corps and the Coast Guard blared "Anchors Aweigh" down historic Pennsylvania Avenue as the admiral's car threaded through the vast multitudes. Police Superintendent Edward Kelly estimated the crowd at more than a million, greater than the throngs that turned out to greet General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Jonathan M. Wainwright.

The tight-lipped Nimitz took it all in grim stride, smiling more than usual, of course. But he refused to accept any of the accolade for himself.

He accepted the high honor, he said, on behalf of the more than 2,000,000 men of the Navy, the Army, the Marine Corps, who served under his command.

He told a joint session of the House and Senate:

"Our enemy was forced to surrender because she was stripped of her sea power. And then he bit the words off."

"I pray that no future war may ever again find us unprepared."

Nimitz expanded on this in his speech to the monument grounds crowd with a plea for continuance of great sea strength as peace insurance.

"Today, you are the possessor of the mightiest seapower the world ever has known," he told the throng.

I pray that we will not take the easiest way—that we pledge ourselves to remain strong in order that we may continue to live as free men."

WOMEN BATTLE
TO GREET DUKEEx-King Visits Mother
In London For First Time In 9 Years

London, Oct. 5. (AP)—Crowds of screaming women fought with police and trampled one another today for a glimpse of the Duke of Windsor as he arrived to Marlborough House to visit his mother, Dowager Queen Mary, for the first time in nine years.

The car bearing the former king, who renounced the British throne in 1936 for "the woman I love," was stopped twice by the crowd in less than 50 yards as it approached the queen mother's home.

At least two husky bobbies were knocked down. A number of women fell and were stepped upon by others jamming forward, craning their necks, waving handkerchiefs and yelling at the former ruler.

Many women shouted, "We want you back." Others yelled "Good old Edward" and "Long live the Duke of Windsor."

The duke, wearing a light suit and hatless, smiled and waved.

The queen mother was unattended when she received her son in the reception room of the rustic old mansion. Afterward they had tea together.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Lansing, Oct. 5. (AP)—Declaring "a united program" against fire was of "urgent importance," Governor Kelly today designated the week beginning Oct. 6 as Fire Prevention Week.

In 1944, 197 persons lost their lives due to uncontrolled fires, an increase of 65 over 1943, and the property loss from fire was $19,359,537, an increase of $4,204,121, Kelly reported.

PATTON ADMITS
ABORTIVE RAIDTask Force Of 300 Men
Lost In Strike At German Prison

BY DONALD DOANE

Bad Toelz, Germany, Oct. 5. (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton Jr. said today concern for all Americans held at Hammelburg prompted his abortive strike at the German camp last March 27 and he did not know until nine days later that his son-in-law was among the prisoners there.

The son-in-law is Lt. Col. John K. Waters, Maryland-born West Pointer who was captured in North Africa early in 1943. He was among Americans and Allied prisoners freed April 7, not by Patton's forces but by a column of the U. S. Seventh Army's 14th Armored Division.

Patton, who is being transferred Sunday from command of his veteran Third Army to the skeletonized 15th Army, lost a task force of about 300 men in the March 27 rescue attempt by his Fourth Armored Division.

Austen Lake, war correspondent-cum-columnist of the Boston-American, said in an article yesterday that the thrust by the Third Armored Task Force was "an incomprehensible mystery mission" until "we later discovered this Stalag held Gen. Patton's son-in-law."

Lake said the camp was some 50 miles outside the Third Army's combat zone and that it would have been overrun by the Seventh Army anyway in a matter of days.

Seizure of the oil companies was ordered last night by President Truman because of "serious shortages" in fuel supplies for the military and the creeping paralysis of transportation in numerous cities.

But it did not settle the basic issue on which workers quit their jobs in refineries and pipeline stations—the CIO demand for wage increases to compensate for the coming cut in hours from 48 to 40 a week.

In behalf of the oil workers executive council, Knight announced that he would seek to negotiate

Veterans Center
For Readjustment

Ann Arbor, Oct. 6. (AP)—A temporary veterans readjustment center will open within a few weeks in the Neuropsychiatric Institute of the University hospital, Dr. Raymond W. Waggoner, director of the institute and a member of the state mental health commission, said today.

The temporary 20 bed center will operate until the $250,000 50 bed clinic is completed near the hospital next spring, he declared.

Dr. Waggoner said the delay was caused by difficulty in hiring personnel such as psychiatrists and doctors of medicine.

Men Under 20 Face
Induction By Army;
Standards Relaxed

Milwaukee, Oct. 5. (AP)—Advising men of 18, 19 and 20 years to be reconciled to the prospects of induction for military service, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service, declared today that a lowering of physical standards was becoming increasingly imminent.

Gen. Hershey, here to inspect new consolidated headquarters for Milwaukee county draft boards, said that it seemed evident that no legislation would be passed by congress under which men under 21 would not be called for military duty.

UNION ORDERS
OIL WORKERS
BACK TO JOBSFINAL SHOWDOWN
IN CIO PAY BID
POSTPONED

BY STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Oct. 5. (AP)—Forty-three thousand oil striking workers were directed by their union today to return to jobs in refineries seized by the United States Navy.

The union president, O. A. Knight, announced here that the workers in 15 states were willing to return to work "for the United States government" but were "still on strike against the companies."

The government thus had postponed—by federal seizure in part—the final showdown on the CIO Oil Workers' International Union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase to compensate for loss of overtime pay. Twenty-six companies are in navy hands.

The tip-off was supplied inadvertently by the resigned premier, Naaruhiko Higashi-Kuni, who pulled out with his cabinet rather than execute General MacArthur's directives for a new freedom, including the right of Japanese to criticize the Mikado.

"I am sure things will go smoothly under Minister Yoshida," Higashikuni said in an interview. Yoshida was foreign minister in the resigned cabinet.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Takekura Ogata earlier had thrown out strong hints that the 67-year-old Yoshida, former Japanese ambassador to Italy and Great Britain, had accepted the post.

Yoshida originally was reluctant to accept the position through lack of confidence in his ability to handle the tense domestic problems, which include grave food and fuel shortages.

Ogata told James Lindsley, Associated Press correspondent, the new cabinet would be formed within the next two or three days.

The ticklish task of getting a new leader who will work smoothly at the head of a "crisis" government with MacArthur produced a flurry of activity today.

Marquis Kido was absent from his office throughout the morning. Yoshida left his residence early in the morning.

The MacArthur directive which started the government pot to boiling had included demands for the removal within two weeks of prefectural police chiefs.

Today, Kelo Hayashi, chief of the personnel affairs section of the MacArthur - rebuked home ministry, said these chiefs would remain at their posts despite "to prevent disruption of law and order." They were told to await "concrete orders" from the home ministry for their resignations.

The fall of Prince Higashikuni's post-surrender cabinet earlier today was traced to his inability to shake loose the bureaucratic fetters of the old order and act in the mounting crisis.

While Japan's highest ranking suspected war criminals were transferred from Yokohama prison to Omori prison camp near Tokyo where American prisoners of war once were held.

This was in line with MacArthur's own recent declaration that what was good enough for American prisoners of war is good enough for the Japanese.

Among the 21 was Lt. Gen. Masaharu Fuma, soon to be tried in Manila for his part in the Bataan death March; Adm. Shigetaro Shimada, navy minister at the time of Pearl Harbor blow, and six other members of former dictator Hideki Tojo's "Pearl Harbor" cabinet.

The report today showed that Kimmel, while testifying before the Army board, was asked if he felt "let down" by the operation of the warning network on the morning of December 7, 1941.

(Previous reports had revealed that two Army enlisted men, operating a radar set before the Japanese planes attacked, had discovered a flight of planes coming in toward the island. They reported this to superior officers.)

In answer to the question, Kimmel said he knew "nothing about the receipt of any information at all in the Army radar, until Tuesday, I think it was, following the attack (on Sunday morning) and when I found out that they had known where these planes came from and located within rather narrow limits the attacking forces—yes, I felt let down."

The swartzy former Vichy premier won from the presiding judge and prosecutor the concession "you will not be reproached" for his prewar record as a politician or statesman, or for complicity in the French armistice with Germany in 1940.

A court ruling admitted that Laval's retrial examination was inadequate, but said it had no power to reopen the examination and that additional information would have to come out in the trial itself.

Laval was harsh when his testimony touched on Pétain.

In a confiding manner Laval asked the court "do you want to hear a story?"

Then he told how he realized the marshal one day if he realized the extent of his power.

"You have more power than Louis XIV, for he (Louis) had to submit his decrees to parliament for ratification," Laval said he told Pétain.

The marshal, said Laval, "was so tickled with the story that a few days later, having forgotten that I told it to him, he retold me the same story."

Tokyo, Saturday, Oct. 6. (AP)—

Japan's new premier, the Associated Press learned reliably today, is Shigeru Yoshida, a veteran diplomat jailed by the militaryists near war's end after reputedly opposing the war from its beginning.

The tip-off was supplied inadvertently by the resigned premier, Naaruhiko Higashi-Kuni, who pulled out with his cabinet rather than execute General MacArthur's directives for a new freedom, including the right of Japanese to criticize the Mikado.

BYRNES AGAINST
DICTATED PEACESecretary Hopes Russia
Will Agree To Settle
At Conference

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Oct. 5. (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes tonight declared firmly against dictation of world peace by the Big Three powers and expressed a "hope" that Soviet Russia would agree to hold a general conference to settle the peace of Europe.

The secretary disclosed that at the recent foreign ministers meeting at London Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia had agreed the proposal for a conference was "correct in principle."

"My hope," Byrnes declared in a radio address, "is that after he has conferred with his government, his government will agree that the nations that fought the war—the world war—shall have a chance to make the world peace."

In a 4,000-word report on the foreign ministers council

STATE DELAYS
APPEAL HEARING

Is Not Ready To Conduct Hearings At Monday Board Meeting

The Michigan state tax commission has notified County Clerk J. Theodore Ohlen that it will not be prepared to conduct a hearing at the Monday meeting of the county board of supervisors on the appeal from county tax equalization as filed by Supervisor Peter N. Logan of Escanaba.

Last spring Supervisor Logan voted against the equalization of county tax valuations as made by the county board, and appealed to the state tax commission to make the equalization. Logan termed the county equalization unjust and discriminatory.

Previously, the state tax commission had notified the county it expected to conduct a hearing on equalization at the October meeting of the Delta county board.

Recently, Arthur E. Hagen, commission secretary, wrote the county clerk stating that the commissions equalization study had not been completed and the "hearing on this appeal may not be scheduled until some time after the board of supervisors has convened for its fall session." He suggested the board might desire to recess subject to an order of the commission on an appeal hearing. Regret was expressed by the commission for the delay, but it was caused by the many appeals from county equalization this year, the commission secretary reported.

Another hearing is also coming up by the state tax commission on the county's appeal from a tax allocation rate established by the county tax allocation commission. The county's millage rate was reduced, while the rate for the schools was increased.

No date has been set by the state on the hearing on that appeal, but the county clerk has been advised to have the budgets of the county and the schools available.

Average American reaching 70 consumed during his lifetime 150 head of cattle, 225 lambs, 26 sheep, 310 swine, 2400 chickens, 26 acres of grain, 50 acres of fruits and vegetables.

Briefly Told

Two Deliveries—The Escanaba postoffice resumed its former schedule of two mail deliveries daily on Thursday. One a day service was put into effect when the Soo Line train, operating between Gladstone and the Sault, was pulled off. This train was restored recently. Alton Mallmann, who was recently discharged from the army after service in the European war theater, has resumed his duties as mail carrier here.

Decide Against City Site—City Manager A. V. Aronson yesterday was informed by O. C. Oelke, president of the United Abrasive company, Chicago, that the company is no longer interested in acquiring the city-owned Steele-Wallace property as an industrial site because of the extensive remodeling required. He informed the manager his company would be interested in a location where less remodeling would be necessary.

Family Burned Out—The Ted Prim dwelling in Escanaba township, two miles west of Riverview, was destroyed by fire early yesterday, and the family lost all of its household goods and clothing. The fire is believed to have started from an oil stove. The family was working in the field when the fire occurred. Sheriff William E. Miron said that his office may be contacted by persons who have furniture or clothing to donate to the family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Prim, a son, 15, and a 10-year-old daughter.

Schedule Meeting On Re-registration

A school of instruction for Delta county supervisors, township, village and city clerks for governmental units which do not have a loose-leaf signature system of registration for voters, will be held at the courthouse at 9 a. m. Oct. 15, it was announced yesterday by County Clerk J. Theodore Ohlen.

Under a 1945 act of the Michigan legislature, it is necessary that all townships, villages and cities in the state adopt the new system of registering voters. For units which do not maintain such a system it will require a complete re-registration starting May 1, 1946. The re-registration must be completed at least 20 days prior to the primary election next fall.

BOW AND ARROW HUNTING STARTS

Three County Men Get License For Special Deer Season

The opening of the 1945 bow and arrow season for deer hunters in Michigan found three Delta county men with licenses which permit them to kill one male deer with three-inch antlers. If the bow and arrow hunter is unsuccessful he has the opportunity this year, for the first time, to purchase a license for the regular season and hunt with firearms.

The three Delta county bow and arrow hunters who have so far obtained licenses are:

Walter Nelson of 1222 Eleventh avenue south, Escanaba; Elmer Johnson, Escanaba Rt. 1; and Laverne Spaulding of Rapid River.

The deer hunting season for archers opened Oct. 1 and will end Nov. 5. Bow and arrow licenses are obtainable only at conservation headquarters and the fee is $2.25 for residents and $5 for non-residents.

Nelson said yesterday that he will have his first opportunity today to get into the woods so far this season. He and Johnson will go to a camp on the Whitefish river to hunt from there over the week end. Nelson has hunted for the past three seasons, while this is Johnson's first season.

Nelson makes his own archery equipment, as do many of the bow and arrow hunters. The number of hunting archers is increasing and a special deer hunting season was established by many states for their benefit a few years ago.

Perkins

Visiting Parents

Perkins, Mich.—Three soldier sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fournier of Perkins have arrived to visit at the family home. T/3 Lawrence Fournier, who recently was discharged from the army after five years of service, came from Kaiser, Ark., with his wife and daughter, Frances. S/Sgt. Harvey, a waist gunner in the Army Air Force who recently returned from 14 months of duty in the Pacific, came Friday night from Midland, Tex. The other son is T/5 George Fournier, who was recently discharged from the army after three years of service. He served as a truck driver in Iran and China.

DANGER ON THE PRODUCTION FRONT

How Much Will You Have to Pay for Your New Car?

How Long Will You Have to Wait to Get It?

RECONVERSION BOGGING DOWN

Strikes are threatening the entire automobile industry. General Motors is being specifically singled out for attack to enforce unreasonable demands. Some of our plants have already been closed and shipment of materials from the plants of many of our suppliers has already been stopped by strikes.

The interests of all Americans should be considered. This is not only a General Motors problem. It is a national one as well. If our plants are closed by strikes the strikes will be against the interests of all the people of our country as much as they will be against General Motors.

AFTERMATH OF WAR

While the war is over, the aftermath of war presents big problems. War is terribly wasteful in blood and treasure. This one was especially so. It was not prosperity even though to some it may have seemed to be. And the immediate aftermath of such a war cannot be prosperity either. The clean-up, the mopping-up, the reconversion still require hard work, patience, understanding, and some sacrifice on the part of all of us.

INDUSTRY ON THE JOB

Our fighting men crushed our enemies with the huge quantity of weapons produced by American industry. But that is behind us. We would like to have been better prepared for peace, but the terrific demands of the war for men and materials did not make this possible. Now we have planned a second all-out effort and stand ready and anxious to do an equally impressive job.

PROBLEMS OF RECONVERSION

American industry has proved its ability to perform. It has the know-how, the resources, the courage to push ahead. But even with these fine assets it cannot do the job alone. It must have the goodwill and backing of the people of our country.

Our second all-out effort to meet a critical situation will bog down unless the real facts are recognized and sound measures promptly taken to solve the problems. Temporarily, while we are liquidating the war, there should be a sound national wage-price policy to stabilize and expand the economy.

DANGER OF INFLATION

The most serious threat we face is that of runaway inflation. The danger comes from three sources: first, the wartime and current tremendous deficit spending of our government; second, the pent-up demands for goods and services to the point where some are willing to pay excess prices even in black markets to satisfy their impatient and selfish desires; third, the desires of equally selfish unions to take advantage of the situation and force unreasonable wage increases.

Inflation is the worst of all economic diseases. It reduces the value of money in terms of what money will buy. It reduces the value of the savings of the people. It undermines security. It underwrites depression. It destroys confidence. It creates unemployment. Inflation must be avoided.

REAL PRICES

In a free market and in the absence of subsidies and speculation, the cost of human effort, be it in the form of wages, salaries or other forms of compensation, quickly determines the price we pay for goods.

Higher wages without a corresponding increase in productivity are inflationary. Nothing is gained unless higher wages mean more goods and services, more customers and more good jobs. This requires individual application to the job in hand and technological progress all along the line—better ways of doing all the things that must be done to produce and deliver products to customers at reasonable prices. This takes time.

A minority, by monopoly or by pressure group action, may temporarily profit at the expense of others. But the idea of wage increases all along the line without a corresponding increase in productivity is a delusion. All the people cannot lift themselves by their bootstraps.

UNION DEMANDS

Today, unions in our plants are demanding 52 hours' pay for 40 hours' work. Their demands if granted would result in over 67 hours' pay at present base rates for 48 hours of work where plants are working on such a schedule.

Equivalent or greater demands have been made on our suppliers—the parts manufacturers—the electrical industry—the steel industry—the rubber industry—the oil and gasoline industry—the railroads—in fact, on practically every industry involved in the production of automobiles.

WAGES AND PRICES

General Motors wages are now at an all-time high and are importantly higher than the average wages paid throughout the country for similar work.

The present government stabilization policy permits wage increases without government approval only if such increases will not result in a request to increase prices. The formula the OPA has proposed for pricing our new products does not recognize or allow all the actual increases in our costs that have been incurred since 1942.

Neither is there any provision in the present OPA formula for increasing prices to compensate for the additional costs that would be incurred if wages and salaries were increased at this time.

A sound and equitable solution must be found in the interests of not only our 400,000 employees, but our 426,000 stockholders, our 15,214 automobile dealers, who have had no new cars for over three years, our 10,000 subcontractors and suppliers and their employees, and the more than 10,000,000 potential customers who are anxiously waiting for new cars and our other products they need so badly.

WARTIME PROFITS

General Motors did not make big profits during the war. Although sales and employment doubled, the average yearly net profit in dollars earned during the war was less than the average prewar net profit. Dividends paid to stockholders averaged less than those paid before the war.

The war profit limitation policy voluntarily adopted by General Motors immediately after Pearl Harbor was so reasonable that the resulting profits were accepted in renegotiation without change by our government for the years 1942, 1943 and 1944.

During the war, Victory Was Our Business.

EXCESS WAGES REFUSED

Demands are being made for higher wages without any corresponding increase in production, on the assumption that the additional costs can be absorbed from profits previously earned or from uncertain future profits.

General Motors cannot use money saved up for many years for the purpose of modernizing and expanding its plants and providing more good jobs, to pay excess wages for work not performed. The money cannot be spent twice.

Neither can excess wages be currently paid from presumed future excess profits when a realistic forecast of costs shows there will be no such excess profits.

Nor can we pay from current income the increased wages demanded when the present OPA policy holds prices to substantially 1942 levels—especially in view of the fact that there have been important increases in wages and operating costs since 1942.

Runaway inflation must be avoided. If an adjustment in price levels must be made at this time, the interests of all the people must be fairly considered.

If wage and salary increases are made, it must be recognized that they increase costs and such costs must be adequately reflected in the prices of products produced.

Internal strife and unemployment must be avoided. Only productive work and more good jobs will increase our standard of living and satisfy the desires of the American people.

Reject Russian Demand

IN GENERAL, the Allied Nations worked in close agreement during the war with the result that their enemies were brought to complete and unconditional surrender. Now that the victory has been won on the battlefields, the unity that prevailed during the war is disappearing, with the resultant bickering and confusion.
During the war, the United States made most of the concessions in the interests of harmony. Apparently some of the Allied Nations, particularly Russia, believe that the United States will always make the concessions when an impasse is reached.
This condition is not only wrong, but it is also dangerous to the cause of international unity. We have been quick to recognize Russia's interests but Russia, in turn, has not been so quick in recognizing our rights and interests.
The Russian demand for a four-power control government in Japan, for instance, is a case in point. The Russians entered the Japanese war only a few days before the capitulation of Japan. Japan was brought to defeat virtually entirely by the United States army and navy. The Allied rule in Japan under Gen. MacArthur has been smooth, closely following the declarations of the Potsdam conference.
It cannot be said that the four-power control of Germany is working smoothly, nor with any degree of unity. It would be a mistake to establish the same pattern for the occupation and control of Japan that has been established for Germany. The United States should flatly reject this Russian demand.

Highway Program Approved

CONGRESS has put its stamp of approval on a three-year federal-state highway construction program, which will entail an expenditure of three billion dollars. For the first year, Michigan will receive $15,000,000, to be used on a matching basis for the building of trunk-line and secondary highways.
The Upper Peninsula's program should be well under way next spring, for the highway department has had much time during the idle wartime years to get their plans in readiness. This road construction will come at an opportune time for by next spring most of the service men will be back home, many of them looking for jobs.
Highway building cannot get under way too soon, however, for the Upper Peninsula wants to be prepared for the tourist rush in 1946 and succeeding years. Good roads are the keystone on which to build a profitable tourist industry.

Good News From China

THE Moscow report that the Kuomintang and the Chinese Communists have reached an agreement is, if true, about the most encouraging news that could be hoped for in the world today.
The differences between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and the Communists were bitter and of long standing. Their views and aims were radically opposed. Both sought control of all China. Both had legitimate claims of one sort or another to back them up.
Their combined efforts against the Japanese had the earmarks of an armed truce which seemed destined to end when the invader was expelled. Informed students of modern China feared a tragic civil war which might draw in Russia and force the reluctant intervention of the United States.
If the Generalissimo and Mao Tse-tung, the Communist leader, have reached a compromise, it is a feat of diplomacy for which the whole world owes them thanks. And if the report of an agreement to reform the national government is good news, the forecast of general elections at an early date is even better.
We Americans sometimes forget that free, honest, general elections are a blessing not accorded the people of every nation. We often go off the beam on the emotional binge that precedes our elections. But, with rare exceptions, the vote itself is an unimpeded, unhampered and satisfactory solution of our major political problems.
Free general elections probably could settle the majority of the world's political problems today with equal satisfaction. But they are a device that fills some heads of state with fear, and others with a sincere, convinced distaste.
Naturally, a government which holds office by force of arms fears the popular will. But there are also political philosophies which hold that a narrowly representative government is preferable to one chosen democratically. If Premier Stalin, for example, were to be a candidate for the office he now holds in a general American-type election, he probably would win hands down. But it isn't likely that the victory would change the present Russian government's attitude toward a wide open political field.
So if Generalissimo Chiang and Mr. Mao have decided to reshape China's government according to the popular will, it is a great and historic decision. A free election there would do much to give new meaning to the word democracy, which was twisted into a variety of amazing shapes to fit a variety of purposes during the years of military alliance against the Axis.

To Eliminate Soot

PURCHASE of a new stoker and soot eliminator for the municipal steam plant has been authorized by the Escanaba city council, which indicates that expansion of this utility service is contemplated by the city.
One of the principal arguments in favor of central heating is its effectiveness in abating the smoke nuisance. Unfortunately, this point gained little support here because the steam plant itself was a serious offender, but steps will be taken to remedy this defect.
In many other cities, central heating has been gaining in popularity, for it eliminates ash disposal, soot and other nuisances. Installation of the new equipment in the steam plant and the extension of the service throughout the business district will be a forward step in making the city more attractive.

Fire Prevention Week

FIRE Prevention Week comes this year on the eve of what promises to be the country's biggest building boom. And it comes with a timely reminder that it costs no more to build a dwelling properly, according to recommendations of the National Fire Protection association, than it does to construct a potential fire trap.
In the last 10 years fire has killed 100,000 Americans, 75,000 of them in homes. It has burned and disfigured 170,000. It has destroyed $3,000,000,000 worth of property. Our peacetime fire loss has become the highest in the world, higher even than the normal loss in the supposedly tinderbox country of Japan.
The causes of our fires are about equally divided between carelessness and negligence. And while human behavior isn't so easily corrected, structural hazards can be eliminated.
So those who are planning to buy or build should make sure that their postwar "dream house" has such practical necessities as an adequate wiring system with sufficient outlets; a roof of fire-resistant material; a properly constructed chimney; and an efficient heating plant, properly installed and adequately protected.

MAJ. BONG CHOSE HIS RISK

(Milwaukee Journal)
The tragedy which took the life of Maj. Richard Bong was surely felt nowhere more keenly and universally than in Wisconsin, for he was Wisconsin born and bred and his stellar performance as a fighter pilot in the Pacific had been a source of pride to every citizen of the state.
The anguish that we all felt over his death while flying a new type jet propelled plane was accentuated by the published accusation that his life was brazenly sacrificed, after he had survived all the perils of air combat with the enemy, by his assignment to particularly hazardous duty testing unproved high speed aircraft.
There is consolation of a sort, then, in the letter of former Secretary of War Stimson explaining that Maj. Bong had been told previously that he was exempt from all perilous duty and was eligible for release from the army as a holder of the greatly deserved medal of honor. He had, in spite of this fact, "eagerly sought" an opportunity to fly the new jet planes, not merely as an adventure but to add to his own knowledge of, and experience with, this type of advanced aircraft in anticipation of associating himself with a leading aircraft manufacturing concern after discharge.
On this evidence, therefore, his commanders seem to stand absolved of any insensitiveness or recklessness in allowing Maj. Bong to court death that he had so miraculously escaped in battle. It will be small comfort to his loved ones. But it is a stinging rebuke to those irresponsible commentators who, without the facts, so brazenly tried to play on the public emotions of the moment by charging that this Wisconsin hero was the victim of heartlessness or indifference.

HIGHEST TRIBUTE

(Muncie Press)
When our people chose a free economy they broke away from the old dictated economy controlled by men in government. The aim of our new country was to destroy the age-old dictated economy which enabled men in government. The wealth of our nation has remained in the hands of men not in government—the people.
Has our free economy failed? The answer is that the men not in government are still free and that our nation is the wealthiest and strongest in the world today. But our free economy goes farther. In the more than 160 years of its trial, the men not in government worked with the men in government to such an extent that they have broadened our free economy by helping formulate policies which raised our standard of living to unheard of levels and enabled our country to give hope and material help to peoples of other nations who sought to break the paralyzing hold of men in government. This unity of purpose to preserve and strengthen freedom and justice is the highest tribute to the superiority of a free economy.

SHOULD "ENVOY" RHYME WITH "CONVOY"?

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS
Washington—The view of the strike situation from Washington is one of almost unrelieved gloom. It seems certain to get worse before it gets better.
One of the chief worries here is that so little control and discipline are being exercised by the top leadership of labor. In other words, labor seems to have no general staff, so that warfare on the labor front breaks out sporadically at every point on the compass.
The biggest concern is still the auto industry. Since it is likely to pace the reconversion program, what happens in motors may set the pattern for all of industry.
Locals of the United Auto Workers are out of hand, according to all reports. Top UAW officials have apparently made no progress in settling the Kelsey-Hayes strikes, which was the occasion for the Ford shutdown.
—UAW TORN BY STRIFE—
The great, sprawling UAW, with its wartime peak of 1,250,000 members, has been torn by strife among the leaders of the union. In their struggle for power, the problem of discipline, almost impossible in itself, has been neglected. There has been little preparation for a long siege.
There are some 300,000 constituent parts in the modern automobile, each one essential. The making of many of these parts is farmed out to other firms, such as Kelsey-Hayes. A so-called wildcat strike that stops the manufacture of some essential part can stop most of the industry.
If the motor assembly lines stop, then the demand for steel falls off and the effect is felt on down the line. Our industrial structure is so closely integrated that even a slight push causes a vibration from end to end.
Some unions, such as the United Steel Workers, have done a much more thorough job during the war. Their organization is said to be tightly knit, ready for whatever may happen.
But when it comes to bringing labor's full force to bear, both politically and economically, the flaw lies in the division between A. F. of L. and CIO. That division is, today, deeper than ever, and it is being actively exploited by the A. F. of L.
It cuts so many different ways. When the President appointed Raymond McKee to be a member of the Maritime Commission, A. F. of L. opposition was almost automatic, since McKee has been working for the political action committee in Chicago.
—SPLIT PREVENTS PEACE—
This split at the top enormously complicates any effort to bring order in the labor field. It makes it, in fact, almost impossible.
One of the major obstacles in setting up the forthcoming labor-management conference has been jealous rivalry between the two groups—three groups, actually, taking the great John L. Lewis into consideration. This may have been one reason for setting the conference so far in the future. To balance off these powers takes even more tact and protocol than is required to bring the foreign ministers of the world together.
Many people on both sides of the management-labor line are asking why the conference was not called earlier, when it might have helped to solve some of the troubles reflected in current headlines. Besides the problem of bringing the three hostile branches of labor together, there have been other difficulties.
One is to find an impartial chairman. That is a little like looking for the perfect man, the white knight above fear and favor.
Samuel Seabury, who had so much to do with cleaning up New York and ousting Tammany, was at first considered. But because he has had a part in New York's current mayoralty campaign, he was considered too political.
Next, Henry L. Stimson was approached as a rare citizen who does his duty as a patriot rather than a partisan. But Stimson, at 78, after five years in the war department, begged off. He deserves a rest.
It is a job for someone who can keep a level head in the midst of what threatens to be a national cyclone.

We hear from the bottom of movie seats that chewing gum is plentiful again.
Now that we have peace, there's only one great China question left—who will wash the dishes?
one another's misconceptions.
Such a word is envoy, "an emissary; the official messenger of a government." I do not know who started the mispronunciation "ON-voy," to rhyme with "convoy." But it is safe to assume that whoever he was, he naively believed envoy to be French, and that "ON-voy" is the French pronunciation.
He was wrong on two counts: (1) Envoy is an English word. (2) If it were French, no Frenchman would ever think of pronouncing it "ON-voy."
Centuries ago we borrowed the French noun envoyé (the final "e" is marked with an acute accent). But we Anglicized the word by dropping the final "e," and by pronouncing the word according to English values, thus: En-voy. The word is so pronounced in all accepted dictionaries.
Nevertheless, to demonstrate the purity of our "French," we continue to use the sonorous and utterly un-French pronunciation "ON-voy," producing a two-syllable sound that is not French, nor English, nor anything else.
To understand why "ON-voy" has no resemblance to French, we have only to note the French pronunciation of the noun envoyé: ah(n)-vwa-YAY, with the nasal sound in the first syllable.
I earnestly recommend checking these facts in any reputable dictionary. Broadcasters, especially, can quickly re-establish the correct pronunciation if they will, from this time on, be sure to say: EN-voy.

Good Morning!

THOSE OPPORTUNITIES—An Escanaba young man who has spent several war years in the European theater with the Eighth Air Force is back home again, discharged from service. In his education for military service with the air force he received training in a certain skill which would fit him for postwar employment with one of America's largest and most successful air transportation systems. He turned it down to return to Escanaba and his old job again.

Dunathan "I should think you would have taken the position the airline offered you," one of his friends said. "You would have been able to get higher pay and it would have been an opportunity to see the world."
The U. S. Air Force veteran laughed.

"I've seen enough of the world to convince me that I don't want to see any more of it for awhile," he said. "What I want most of all is a home where I can settle down with my wife and begin living. I wouldn't trade one little corner of America for all the world that I've seen so far."

COMPARISONS — There are few of the veterans who have served overseas who care to stay overseas, make their homes in foreign countries—or even live far from the area in the States they called "home." Most of them will want to get back to relatives, to wives or sweethearts, to families and friends, whether that is in Escanaba, Rapid River or Keokuk.

Talking with some of the veterans of this war, you find they are inclined to express themselves about postwar living in the following order of preference:
1—Get a steady job in the home town.
2—Settle down and establish a home.

Those who are most outspoken will tell you frankly that they are tired of bumping around in other countries, which they compare unfavorably with our own, and that as far as they are concerned the rest of the world is a mighty poor place to live.

AN EXPERIENCE—Their enforced living in other countries has brought to them a new admiration for modern American plumbing, central heating and housing. Such comparisons are inevitable, and the veteran should not be blamed for telling of his experiences with French toilets, English coal grates, Belgium baths or Italian housing.

Seldom has G. I. Joe written or said a critical word of the people of foreign countries. Generally he found them kindly and hospitable, and often their hospitality to our soldiers meant dipping into their already lean store of rationed foods.

MORE SYMPATHETIC—While the veteran home from overseas is most concerned with settling down in his own community again to take up the broken strings of living, his recollections of foreign peoples makes him more appreciative of their problems.

The American soldier who has lived in England has a better understanding of the forces that brought about the overthrow of England's conservative government. He has seen the crowded houses on narrow streets, visited the steaming-stinky "pubs" that are the Englishman's community meeting place, tasted the tasteless English beer, and chilled himself before the tiny fireplace grate that

'Ammunition, Ammunition, Please!'

Good Morning!

THOSE OPPORTUNITIES—An Escanaba young man who has spent several war years in the European theater with the Eighth Air Force is back home again, discharged from service. In his education for military service with the air force he received training in a certain skill which would fit him for postwar employment with one of America's largest and most successful air transportation systems. He turned it down to return to Escanaba and his old job again.

10 Years Ago—1935

Wrigley Field, Chicago—Alvin (General) Crowder, a baseball veteran, who served with the U. S. army in Siberia, capitalized his experience with wintery weather Saturday to pitch the Detroit Tigers to their third straight victory and within one game of their long-sought goal, the world series championship. The 34-year-old North Carolina right-hander turned back the youthful Chicago Cubs and whipped them, 2 to 1, with a brilliantly executed five-hit performance.
After an uneventful trip up the Great Lakes to the Boston navy yard, the Escanaba members of the crew of Lightship 82, commonly known as the 11-Foot, returned to their homes Saturday, leaving the government boat in the shipyards for repairs. Capt. H. Maynard, formerly of the Hyacinth, was the master with Walter Hanson of Escanaba, engineer; William Strehl, Manitowish, assistant engineer; William Ahern, mate; Peder Klemmensen, Escanaba, seaman; Leonard Cousineau and Thomas Besson, members of the crew.

20 Years Ago—1925
Washington—Six naval air officials have opposed President Coolidge's air board hearing on Col. Mitchell's plan for reorganization of national defense, while the colonel himself has been called to the war department where disciplinary proceedings against him are under consideration as a result of his criticism of existing policies.

Mrs. Oscar Sundling, age 46, and her two young daughters, Jewell and Mildred, and a month-old son, Benjamin, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed their farm home near Isabella late Saturday night.

The first game refuge to be established in Delta county is the 16-acre farm owned by Mrs. Mary Carroll in Escanaba township which was formerly dedicated for game refuge purposes by the conservation department last week.

is the only heating in their homes. In Italy he has given coins, gum and chocolate to the hordes of beggar children who swarmed from the hovels around the few eye-catching apartments built by Mussolini's government. In France he has observed the avaricious economy of the peasant, contrasted with the luxurious commodities in Paris shops—typical of the penurious frivolity of the government.

SOBERING INFLUENCE—The experience of the serviceman has been a sobering one, for all he may make light of it, and talk as if his soldiering were a lark.
The very fact that he no longer cares to travel except in his own country is revealing. For one, or two or three years his life has been regimented to the needs of war, and his traveling has not been pleasant, to say the least.

The fact that he wants to settle down in his home town and have a home of his own is also revealing. It is a natural reaction to a life of insecurity and danger. He wants to feel secure and safe again, to begin living personally again.

OF THE FUTURE—There has been speculation by many writers on how the international experiences of the serviceman will affect America's future international policy. Apparently the reaction of the veteran to internationalism will be as contradictory as that of most civilians. He will be sympathetic toward the efforts of other peoples to solve their problems, so long as those efforts do not threaten the safety and security which he has come to prize so highly.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON
Washington—There is a lot more than meets the eye behind the custer of pistol-packing, Gen. George S. Patton Jr. as governor of Bavaria. Actually, members of General Eisenhower's staff knew for weeks that he was disregarding orders, but winked at it until Ray Daniell of the New York Times exposed Patton's flagrant cooperation with top Nazis and his keeping of U. S. troops in tents while U. S. officers were entertained in luxurious Nazi homes. For instance, at a meeting of Allied military governors called by Generals Eisenhower and Clay at supreme headquarters from Aug. 27 to 29, Patton vigorously and openly objected to Clay's orders on de-Nazification. Clay had demanded that no Nazis be used under American occupation forces.
"Hell's Bells," exploded Patton, "when a fellow goes into a town without a Burge-meister who is invariably a Nazi, he will be up the creek without a paddle."
General Clay bristled and replied, "we're not here to run Germany efficiently. We're here to get the Nazis out."

Despite this, however, Patton went his own sweet way, ignoring orders. It should be said for him, however, that others did the same. There are four reasons for the flagrant disregard of Eisenhower's orders by his officers. Many of them don't believe in a tough peace for Germany. Some want to build up Germany as a bulwark against Russia. Some are production men by trade and are therefore anxious to see Germany produce. Some were actively engaged in doing business with Germany before the war, so believe in rebuilding Germany as a good customer.

A sample of the type of men in top control of Germany is Brig. Gen. William H. Draper, head of Dillon, Read and Company, which did considerable business with the Nazis before the war. Draper is in charge of overall economic policies and constantly pursues a plan of rebuilding Germany.

Col. James Boyd, an industrialist, sees things the same way as Draper.
Boyd's deputy is Ellis S. Hoagland, who was General Motors' representative in Germany and on good terms with all the Nazi-German industrial magnates before Pearl Harbor.

Another official supposed to de-Nazify Germany is Rufus J. Myszor, former head of Republic Steel. He had considerable dealings with the Germans before the war and is a good friend of all the heads of the Nazi-German steel trusts.

—"MUST USE NAZIS"—
At one meeting in Frankfurt recently, Colonel Boyd asked flatly, "How can I be expected to get the industry of Germany going if I can't use German and Nazi Cartels?"

At a similar meeting, Myszor said, "the most important people in the steel industry were close to the Nazis. How can you run industry if you get rid of the Nazis?"
The head of the transportation section, Gen. John A. Appleton, insisted on using Herr Dortenmuller, who had been in charge of the railways for the Nazis, after our occupation. He only stopped using Dortenmuller when Dortenmuller died at the age of 80 recently.

When Brig. Gen. Frank Mead, who is in charge of communications, was ordered to de-Nazify the communication industry, he refused and told one meeting he was "going to shower requests for exceptions on the control council" if not allowed to use Nazis.

The man in charge of watching the de-Nazification program for General Clay is Bob Murphy of state department fame, who collaborated with Admiral Darlan and other Vichyites in North Africa.

Murphy made a report to Clay and Eisenhower in August, stating that the de-Nazification program had already been completed. Actually it had not even begun. Only since a furore broke in the American press and since General Patton frankly admitted he wasn't obeying orders, have Eisenhower and Clay started cleaning house.

NOTE—Last summer, this columnist urged that President Truman's orders to the U. S. army for governing Germany be published so that every G. I. in Germany and every American citizen could know what the orders were and whether they were being carried out. Finally this column published most of this secret order. Aside from this, however, the order has never been officially released by the White House—and still is withheld from the public.

HOLD STEWART FOR OFFICIALS

Paroled Convict Will Be Returned To Prison At Marquette

Walter Stewart, 37, paroled from Marquette branch prison, continued to be held in jail here last night for prison authorities, who will return him to Marquette for violation of parole, Escanaba Police Chief Michael Ettenhofer said yesterday.

Stewart fired a .12 gauge shotgun through a doorway at 327 North 20th street at 3 a. m. Thursday, narrowly missing Mrs. Florence Hogan of that address. Mrs. Hogan's face and neck were scratched by glass from the front door.

Escanaba police said Stewart told them he intended only to "scare" Mrs. Hogan because she had discouraged his attentions and had recently told him to keep away.

Stewart was released on parole from Marquette prison three days after he was transferred to that institution from Jackson prison, where he had been sentenced for robbery armed. He was paroled last November, came to Escanaba and more recently has been employed as a member of a crew installing elevators at Lauerman Brothers store in Marinette.

Police said Stewart told them he brought the shotgun and a pocketful of shells from Marinette to Escanaba on the train. He waited at the residence of Mrs. Hogan until she returned and then fired the shotgun through the glass of the door at head height as she prepared to enter.

Keep Off Streets, Police Chief Warns Football Players

Chief of Police Mike Ettenhofer yesterday warned of the danger of youngsters playing football, baseball and other games in the streets and requested cooperation of parents in guarding against this practice.

Chief Ettenhofer declared that youngsters must use the playgrounds for their games and emphasized that the use of public streets for such purposes is illegal.

Chatham Women Form Homemaking Extension Club

Chatham, Mich.—Two homemaking extension clubs were organized last week. One group for women living south and west of Chatham was organized at the home of Mrs. Eino Lindquist Wednesday evening Sept. 26 and will be known as the Westside Homemakers' Club. Officers and leaders were selected as follows: President—Mrs. Eino Lindquist Vice pres.—Mrs. Kelly Patton Secretary and treasurer—Mrs. John Seppi Leaders—Mrs. Leo Pokela and Mrs. Oscar Nelson.

The group enrolled nine members, Mrs. Abel Takkinen, Mrs. Walter Koski, Mrs. Matt Hendrickson, Mrs. Elwyn Hawley, Mrs. John Marine and the above officers and leaders. More members are desired. Any interested person kindly contact Mrs. Eino Lindquist.

The Eben Home Economics Club was formed at the high school building at a meeting held there Friday evening Sept. 28 with the following officers and leaders: President—Mrs. Toivo Johnson Vice pres.—Mrs. John Berg Secretary and treasurer—Miss Sadie Luoma Leaders—Mrs. Carl Johnson and Mrs. Arne Varti.

Members besides the officers and leaders are, Mrs. W. L. Johnson, Mrs. Walfrid Mickelson, Mrs. Waino Norberg, Mrs. Eli Mutala, Mrs. Lempi Matero, Mrs. Frank Ritola, Mrs. Tauno Lintula, and Mrs. Yalmar Jalonen. All women living in or near Eben are welcome to join and are invited to do so by contacting Mrs. Carl Johnson or Mrs. Toivo Johnson.

An extension club for the women living in Chatham was to be formed at the last guild meeting. No action was taken, however at that meeting. It is expected to organize one at the next regular guild meeting or at a special guild meeting called for that purpose.

BEARS CAUSING SOME TROUBLE

May Remove Protection In Houghton And Chippewa

Black bears of Houghton and Chippewa counties are asking for trouble, it appears, and the conservation commission may be asked to remove protection from them.

The Blue Lakes Sportsmen's club of Hancock is recording complaints of Houghton county farmers concerning increasing depredations of the animals. In Chippewa county, sportsmen's groups are considering recommendations to lift the ban on bear shooting.

Year around shooting of bears in Iron and Ontonagon counties was approved by the commission last month on requests of boards of supervisors, increasing to five those counties in the upper peninsula where bears are without protection. Other counties are Baraga, Menominee, and Schoolcraft.

Bears also may be shot at any time in Leelanau, Missaukee, Ogemaw, and Bay counties below the Straits.

Big Pep Session Held By Eskymos Friday Evening

Escanaba's main street was full of hilarious young people last night as the senior high school staged its annual pre-Menominee game "snake dance" and pep session.

They marched from the junior high school to Tenth street, stopping at every other block for cheers and band music. A number of attractive football floats were included in the parade.

Then the line of march veered south on Tenth street to the senior high school, where the students held a great pep session around a bonfire on the south side of the school grounds. Speeches were given by Coach Ruwitch, Capt. Don Scott and Harry Monson. There were cheers and school songs. At the close of the session, a dummy placed on a scaffold, was tossed into the fire, representing what the Eskymos intend to do today to the Menominee Maroons.

Camp Round Lake To Be Auctioned

The Forest Service announced yesterday that abandoned Camp Round Lake, 12 miles west of St. Ignace, will be sold at a public auction, to be held Oct. 16 and 17. Something to remember when you say "Welcome Home!"

Some of our boys have waited years to hear those two words.

What they've endured for the sake of hearing them is more than we like to dwell upon.

But those two words, "Welcome Home!" can become just an empty phrase if you forget, for one minute, your responsibility to the man you say them to... and to the several million men overseas who are still yearning to come home.

What we're talking about, of course, is your responsibility to continue buying Bonds—and holding on to the ones you already have.

Your purchase of Victory Bonds helps the man who's just come home, helps him in a very real way. For your money, in Victory Bonds, helps prevent inflation—and that, in turn, means security for him, and a better chance to get a job.

And remember this: It will cost plenty of money to maintain and supply our forces of occupation... to bring home the men whose period of service so richly entitles them to return... and to care for the sick and wounded in our Navy and Army hospitals.

No—the job isn't over. You didn't think it was, did you?

Then show that you know it isn't over! Show it to the boys who've come home—and to those who wish they could—by buying another Bond—today!

As a carpenter with Company C, of the 233d Engineer Combat Battalion, Sgt. Rajala was instrumental in the building of a bridge on a jeep trail at Guam capable of carrying the load of a two and a half ton truck which saved the 77th Division much time by making available a route to the beach other than the main supply road which was impassable at the time due to heavy rains. On Leyte, Sgt. Rajala successfully repaired a bridge by working at night with a flashlight under enemy observation and small arms fire in order that the heavy guns could be moved to the front. He was again instrumental in the construction of a H-25 timber trestle bridge across the Antiao River, near Ormoc that immensely aided the movement of supplies for Valencia Airfield. Throughout the Okinawa campaign, Sgt. Rajala did an outstanding job on many carpentry missions assigned to him. His judgement, skill and devotion to duty throughout the three campaigns was an inspiration to all working near him.

Before his induction at Detroit, on August 5, 1942, Sgt. Rajala was a farmer at Rock, Mich., where his mother, Mrs. Edla Rajala now lives. He attended Rock High, and was active in varsity athletics there. His wife, Mrs. Anna Rajala, lives at Box 44, Saline.

Active duty in the Atlantic and in the Pacific as a member of the crew on the U. S. S. Massachusetts.

Bobbie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Menary of Nahma. On his return he has two more years of duty. Bobbie's buddy, Pat Beauchamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Beauchamp of Nahma, is still on duty at a port in Washington and will get his discharge this fall due to his age when enlisting.

Pfc. Clarence Blowers of Nahma arrived home on Tuesday, Sept. 25, from Germany where he had been on Patrol duty. Pvt. Blowers served forty-three months overseas. He is wearing three battle stars. Also the Purple Heart. His wife remained at her home in England and expects to join her husband next spring. Pvt. Blowers reported to Fort Sheridan on Tuesday and will be hospitalized for an indefinite time.

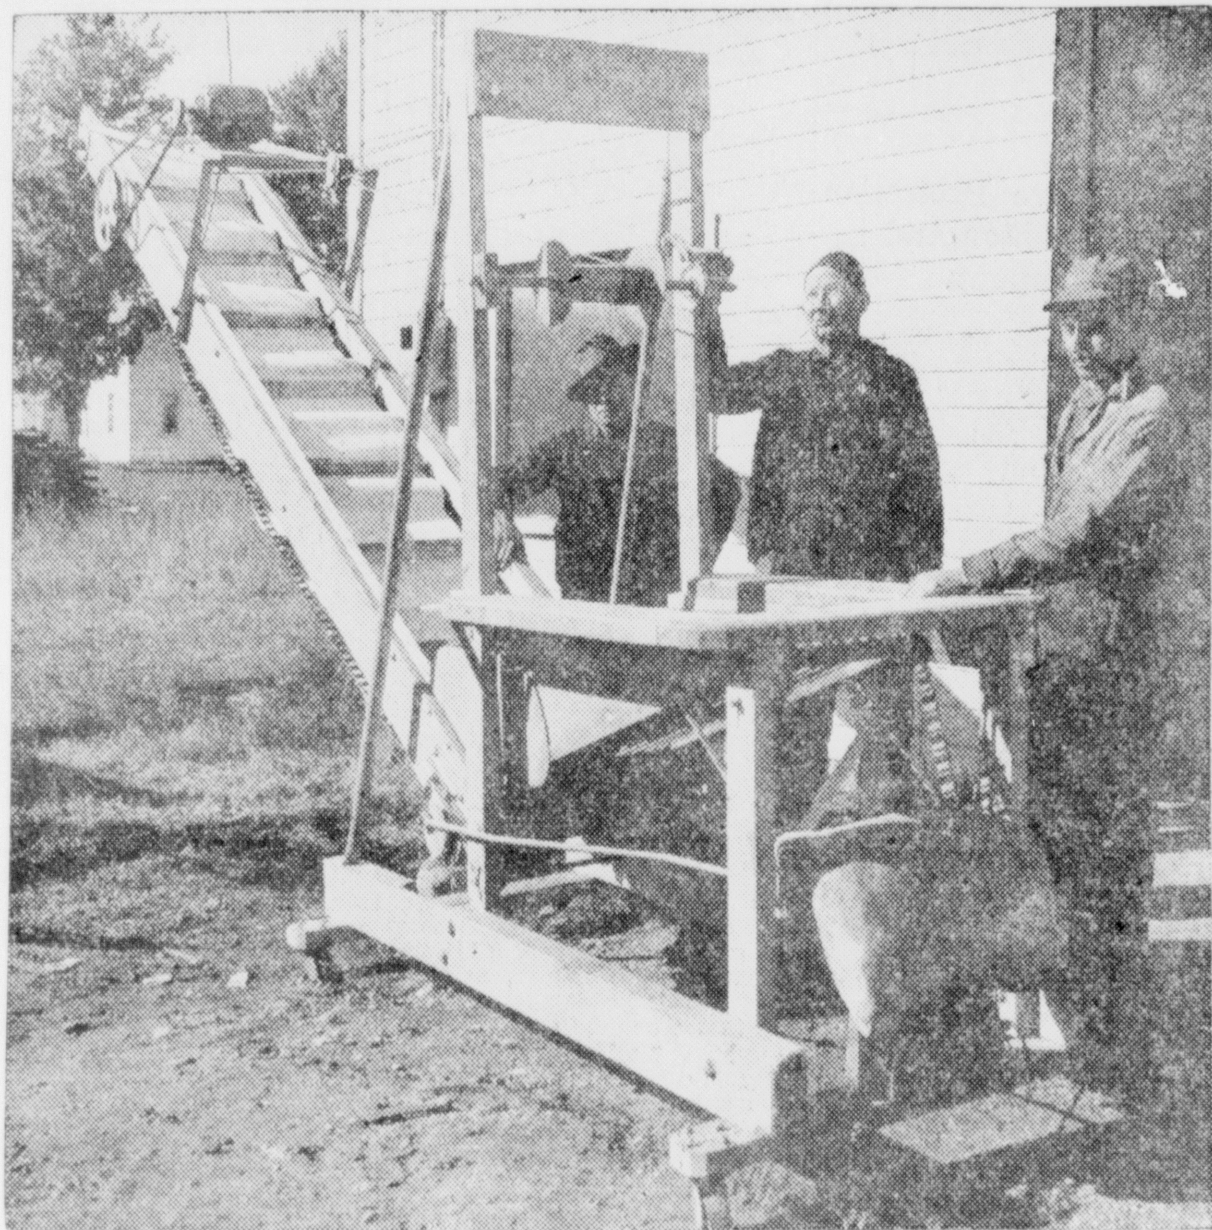

Pfc. Frederick Blowers of Nahma returned to Fort Sheridan to enter a hospital after being ill while on a furlough at his home. He had spent his 30 day furlough and received an extension but had to leave due to illness. He was wounded in France and on his return has been hospitalized.

S Sgt. Joe Blowers of Nahma is still in Italy and expects to be home in the near future.

Pvt. Frank Blowers of Nahma is still in this country and is now stationed at Camp McCall, Bragg, N. C. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blowers of Nahma.

REP. BRADLEY COMING

Sault Ste. Marie.—Congressman Fred Bradley of Rogers City has notified the local Chamber of Commerce that he will come to Sault Ste. Marie Oct. 9 for the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

at the Earl Smith potato warehouse, Gladstone Rt. 1, where it lifts the potatoes into the bins without scraping or damaging them. It is powered with an electric motor. Paquin's machine eliminates the need of handling the spuds into the bins by hand, and thereby saves a considerable amount of labor.

POTATO CONVEYOR—Another invention is a field conveyor used for the first time this season in harvesting potatoes at the Frank Barron farm at Flat Rock. It also is a product of Paquin's Repair Shop. Potatoes are loaded from the field into the conveyor, which deposits them in the truck dump box. From there the tubers are trucked to the storage house. The elevator is powered with a one and one-half horsepower gasoline motor, and Paquin says it speeds the work, saves manpower and prevents the potatoes being bruised in handling. During the past three years Paquin, Hunkle and Benson have helped many local farmers through the trying wartime period of shortage in farm equipment.

QM3-c Roy LaFleur Describes His Trip From U.S. to Guam

QM 3/c Roy J. LaFleur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred LaFleur, 325 No. 20th street, described a trip from the United States to Guam on an oil-laden concrete barge which was sunk for a breakever at Guam, in an interesting letter received recently by his parents.

Excerpts from the letter follow: "I really don't care to see any more of this hot Pacific. We left Galveston, Texas on a concrete barge, loaded with oil. It took us 15 days to Panama, where we stayed for 10 days. From there we took 32 days. About 35 of those days we saw nothing but the blue Pacific. Our escort was a submarine chaser. It made contact one morning on an enemy submarine and shortly after was dropping depth charges. After that it made no more contacts so they loaded the pontoons and then sunk the barge for a breakever, along with many other concrete barges. It was quite an expensive breakever as these barges cost about $2,000,000.

"Our crew of 15 men was transferred to the ship which we are now on, and then we went on to either hit the submarine or it ran off.

"At Pearl Harbor the oil was unloaded and the barge was again loaded with steel pontoons. We spent 20 days in Hawaii and then left for Eniwetok. We were there only six hours and then continued to Guam. There was still fighting there when we arrived. They unloaded. On our way we ran into a storm which we never did expect to get out of. We were there two weeks before we returned to Guam. The same storm had struck there and really damaged things. The sea was so great that the concrete barges broke up into as many as four pieces.

"We spent Thanksgiving, Christmas and up to May 29 at Guam. Then we came to Okinawa. While we were entering the harbor, the Jap suicide planes were overhead. That was the first real action that I had seen. From then on we had two to five raids a day, but most of the planes were shot down. Our ship was credited with bringing down two planes.

"Finally we got word of the Japanese surrender just as a Jap plane was flying directly over our head. That was the last raid we had. We're supposed to go to Leyte from here."

Mr. and Mrs. LaFleur also have three other sons in service. They are Edward J. LaFleur, CM 3/c, in Tokyo; Cpl. Wilfred LaFleur, in France; and Lionel LaFleur, petty officer U. S. Navy, stationed at Dearborn.

The seven wonders of the ancient world were the Pyramids of Egypt, the Gardens of Semiramis at Babylon, the Statue of Zeus at Olympia, the Temple of Artemis at Ephesus, the Mausoleum at Halicarnassus, the Colosseum at Rhodes, the Pharos of Alexandria, or the Walls of Babylon.

PARKING METERS AT MARQUETTE

173 Units Soon Will Be Installed In Downtown Section

Marquette—Setting up of posts on which automobile parking meters will be installed in the city's downtown area was started yesterday by Beyers Brothers, contractors, and Stephen L. Garber, general manager of public works, said he expected the meters will be in operation in about 10 days.

The meters will be set up on Washington street from Front street to Fourth, which is a one-hour parking zone; on Front street from Bluff to Washington, which is a two-hour zone; on Front street from Washington to Baraga avenue, which is a one-hour zone; on Third street from Bluff to Washington, which is a two-hour zone, and on South Third from Washington to the first railway crossing, which is a one-hour zone.

In the two-hour zones the meter posts will be painted blue; in the one-hour zones they will be painted an aluminum color, and in the 15-minute zone—in front of the postoffice on Washington and Third street—they will be painted brown.

To Use 173 Meters

One hundred and seventy-three meters will be installed and on each there will be a plate on which instructions for operation of the meter will be printed.

The parking fee for one hour in the zone in which parking is limited to an hour is five cents. In the two-hour zone it will cost five cents to park for that length of time. For one cent a motorist can park his car 12 minutes in the one-hour parking zone. In the 15-minute zone the fee for parking will be one cent for 12 minutes.

The parking rules and meter fees will not apply on Sundays or legal holidays.

Here On Saturday

Miss Dorothy Carolyn Vanlerberghe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elair Vanlerberghe Sr., of 630 South Sixteenth street, and James L. McLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyal McLeod of 200 South Sixth street, were married Saturday afternoon, Sept. 29, at Salem Evangelical Lutheran church in Escanaba, with Rev. William F. Lutz officiating.

The couple exchanged vows before an altar banked with baskets of asters, gladioli, roses, snapdragons, white daisies and other fall flowers, while the church was lighted with tall tapers for the ceremony. The traditional wedding march from Lohengrin and the recessional were played by Mrs. Harry Ottensman, Jr., at the organ.

Mrs. Elair Vanlerberghe Jr., was matron of honor; Mrs. Wayne McLeod and Mrs. Ernest Vanlerberghe, all sisters-in-law of the bride, served as bridesmaids, while the bridegroom was attended by his brother, Cpl. Wayne McLeod, John and Harold Vanlerberghe, brothers of the bride, were ushers at the pretty double-ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

For her wedding the bride wore a fitted gown of all white moire with a tiered net skirt, Colonial style, and lace inserts ornamented the attractive top and back yoke of the gown. A finger-tip length veil was gathered in a coronet head dress of seed pearls, and the costume was completed with a showered bouquet of white asters and red roses.

The matron of honor was gowned in pastel pink net over white satin, with a sweetheart neckline. The bridesmaids wore identical gowns of pastel net over satin, yellow for Mrs. Ernest Vanlerberghe, and blue for Mrs. Wayne McLeod. All three gowns were styled similarly and the matron of honor and bridesmaids carried matching bouquets and wore headresses of roses and asters.

The bride's mother wore a gown of black crepe with a yoke of inserted matching lace, and matching accessories. Mrs. McLeod, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of navy blue with matching accessories. Both wore red rose corsages.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the private dining room of the Sherman hotel for twenty-five guests at a table decorated in pink and white, and centered by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. About two hundred persons gathered at the home of the bride's parents later at a reception. The home was prettily decorated with baskets of Autumn flowers.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. McLeod left on a honeymoon trip which will take them to Yellowstone National Park and other scenic spots of the West. For her going away outfit Mrs. McLeod chose an aqua classic dress trimmed in black and with black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba high school, Class of '37, and previous to her marriage was employed as a bookkeeper at the First National bank. The bridegroom graduated from Escanaba High school, in 1935 and prior to entering military service was manager of the Cash Way store in Escanaba. He was recently discharged after five years in service, of which three and one-half years were overseas.

Guests attending the ceremony from out of the city included:

Cpl. and Mrs. Wayne McLeod of Tulalosa, Ala.; Mrs. S. W. Gordon of Oshkosh; Miss Ida Greiner and Robert Lee Greiner of Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Emerald Vanlerberghe of Gladstone; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Crawford of Gladstone; First Lt. Ernest Vanlerberghe of Camp Swift, Texas; Sgt. Reynold Vanlerberghe of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kositzky of New York City; and Pfc. James Biehler, who recently returned from overseas duty.

If local cooperation and interest in the current Schoolcraft County War Relief Chest drive is an indication of this community's interest in the comfort, happiness and welfare of the boys who still remain in the armed service, then we are letting them down shamefully, says George Nicholson, veteran chairman of War Chest drives in the past.

Attendance at a meeting called Thursday evening by the present chairman, Clarence J. Cowman, Mr. Nicholson's successor, brought a pitiful response. Forty invitations to be present resulted in an attendance of six.

"You are not going to make a success of an undertaking like this if you can't get together and talk things over," said Mr. Nicholson.

Mr. Cowman, however, has faith that the drive will be a success. Employees at various industrial plants have already shown a definite interest in the campaign and a desire to contribute to it.

Boy Scout leaders and members of the Youth Council will also be asked to give backing to the drive in the city which asks in addition to funds for the USO, donations to the Boy Scout and Youth Center organizations. Contributions to local activities is not asked in rural communities of Schoolcraft county although Inwood township, which maintains a Boy Scout organization, will be asked to contribute to that cause.

Below is a list of solicitors for the various business establishments in Manistique, announced at Thursday night's meeting:

Followed Barber Trade
In City For Many Years

James Graphos, 59, a resident of Manistique for the past 39 years, died Friday morning at the Shaw hospital after a few days' illness. He had gone to the hospital Tuesday morning.

Mr. Graphos, during his active years, was a barber, but failing eyesight forced his retirement several years ago. He was a native of Greece, born at Sikea fifty-nine years ago and came to America in his late teens. He has made his home in this city practically ever since coming to America.

Surviving him are four brothers, George, of Manistique; Gus, of Traverse City; Ted, of Birmingham, Ala., and Andrew, of Greece; and a sister, Mrs. Helen Badsakes, of Traverse City.

Funeral services have been tentatively set for Sunday at the Orthodox church at Sault Ste. Marie, and burial will also be in that city. The body will lie in state at the Kefauver & Jackson funeral home until late Saturday afternoon.

Guests for the evening included Mrs. R. L. Prine, Mrs. Maude Thompson and Mrs. W. J. Bruley.

NEW PASSENGER CAR TIRE

COMING SOON!
NEW B. F. GOODRICH TIRE
THAT OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

THIS isn't a guess. A new kind of tire has been developed, and tests show that it outwears prewar passenger car tires.

It is made of a new kind of synthetic rubber developed by B. F. Goodrich—different from the ordinary synthetic rubber in general use by the tire industry. It helps the new tire run cooler—wear better.

The new tire has had more than 2,000 laboratory tests. Taxicab fleets, state police departments and the B. F. Goodrich test fleet have run it 16,800,000 test miles. Not only does it give longer tread wear than prewar tires, but it has more resistance to bruising or damage from accident.

A new, slightly different shaped tread—we call it the "road level" tread—is another feature that means longer wear. Engineers had wished for years to make a tread just slightly flatter. But that more desirable shape always set up strains in the tire body, or "carcass," as it is called. B. F. Goodrich developed an entirely new and stronger cotton cord, designed it into a 35% stronger carcass that stands all these strains and permits the use of the new flatter, longer-wearing tread.

The tread design is new. It is made up of hundreds of skid-resisting curves for quicker stops, surer starts—safer driving.

In a few weeks these new tires will begin to be produced in large volume, but supplies may be limited for quite a while. We have placed our order, and hope to have our shipment shortly. Watch for our announcement. And in the meantime, take good care of the tires you have—make them last until you can replace them with these new, better B. F. Goodrich Silvertowns.

Gerard Gauthier, Long A Prisoner Of The Japs Is On His Way Home

There is great rejoicing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Gauthier, 102 South Maple street, today. Their son, Pvt. Gerard W. Gauthier, will soon be home.

Since the fall of Corregidor, the young man has been a prisoner of the Japs and is definitely known to have been subjected to some of the most harrowing ordeals that befell the Americans who came into custody of the enemy. He is known to have been with the American prisoners on the infamous Bataan death march and to have, for a time been an inmate of the Bilbilid prison. But now he is safely back with friends and will soon be on his way home.

GERARD GAUTHIER

The good news was received here Friday morning. The telegram from the war department follows:

"Mrs. Naomi Gauthier: 'The secretary of war has asked me to inform you that your son, Pvt. Gauthier, Gerard W., was returned to military control September 19, 1945, and is being returned to the United States within the near future. He will be given an opportunity to communicate with you upon arrival if he has not already done so. Report further states condition fair.'

"Edward F. Witsel, 'Acting Adjutant General of the Army.'

Was At Bilbilid

For months following America's capitulation in the Philippines at the beginning of the war, nothing was heard concerning the young man. Then one day several months ago the parents received an unusual letter. An American soldier, fighting in Luzon, in searching the body of a dead Japanese soldier, found a notation on a scrap of

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation of the wonderful acts of kindness shown us by neighbors and friends during our recent bereavement. We are especially grateful to those who spent spiritual and floral offerings, Rev. Fr. B. J. P. Schevers and E. H. Berendsen, those who donated the use of their cars, those who served as pallbearers, and all others who aided us in so many ways. The memory of these acts of kindness will always remain with us.

waste paper that had been written by Gerard. The writing told that he was being held at the Bilbilid prison and that he had been in the death march. The letter had been turned over to the war department which in turn sent it to Mrs. Gauthier with the added information that when the Bilbilid prison was captured, the young man was not among the inmates but had been shipped to some other prison nearer to Japan. A bullet hole had penetrated the letter, but it isn't known whether or not it was caused by the shot that killed the Japanese soldier.

The young man, who was 19 years old when he enlisted, was attached to General Wainwright's headquarters at the outset of the war and is believed to have served in the personnel department.

Mother Smiles

At the Gauthier home, Mrs. Gauthier smiles through her tears, happy over the fact that the faith she maintained in the darkest hour was triumphant.

She recalls the way her boy, once rejected because he was underweight, made the grade the second time after taking on a diet of milk, cream and bananas. He wanted to enlist before his graduation from Manistique high school in June, 1940, but his parents managed to dissuade him until school was out. He seemed to thrive, she said, in a tropical country and that perhaps accounts for the fact that he survived the ordeal that claimed the lives of so many of his comrades.

State Police Investigate Destruction At Old Kee Fox Farm

State police of the Gladstone post are investigating the malicious destruction of property at what is known as the Kee fox farm at Lake Minnecawas.

The property is now owned by Carl Ingebrigtsen, Route 1, Gladstone, who made the complaint to authorities.

Officers investigating the case found that doors had been kicked in and boards torn from windows on the cottage on the property. Some damage to the interior of the structure was also caused by the vandals.

It is theorized that the destruction is the work of youths as the area is a favorite hunting spot for youths of the community.

Thelma Erickson Granted Discharge

S/Sgt. Thelma M. Erickson of the Woman's Army Corps was separated from service at Fort Sheridan, Ill., on Sept. 24, 1945 and has returned to the home of her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Erickson, 505 North Tenth street, city.

Miss Erickson had over 80 points to her credit at the time of discharge. She entered service at Brooks Field, Texas, Sept. 1, 1943 after having had 10½ months in the Woman's Auxiliary which was disbanded. After schooling in the WAC, Miss Erickson went overseas serving with Hq. & Hq. Sq. 1st Air Division.

Campaigns and battles to her credit are Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, Rhineland, Central Europe and Air Offensive of Europe.

Decorations include the European-African-Middle Eastern theater ribbon with one silver and one bronze battle star, the WAC service ribbon, 3 overseas bars and good conduct medal.

Obituary

MRS. EDWARD BOULLION

Funeral services for Mrs. Edward Boullion, 38, were conducted yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in All Saints' Catholic church, the Rev. Fr. Joseph Schaul offering the mass of requiem.

Music for the mass was sung by All Saints' choir under the direction of Mrs. C. A. LaFave, organist. Gounod's Ave Maria was sung by Miss Mildred Ketchum at the offertory. Flowers were in charge of Mrs. Leslie Davis and Mrs. Andy Moore.

Serving as pallbearers were Sylvester Schram, Carl Schenk, Hubert Bray, John Schram, Stanley Jurdal and Alphonse DeMenter. Burial was made in Fernwood cemetery.

The Kelley funeral home was in charge.

Attending the rites from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Carby, Mrs. Earl Miller, Mrs. Ruby Casey, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Perrow and Mrs. Julius Deent, Escanaba; and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Desautelle and Mrs. C. L. Desautelle, Manistique.

Eskymos Meet Menominee In 49th Annual Grid Classic Today

Passeau Holds Tigers To One Hit; Cubs Take Third Series Tilt, 3-0

YORK'S SINGLE IS LONE BLOW

Chicago Pitcher's Feat Greatest In World Series History

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Detroit, Oct. 5 (AP)—Thirty-four-year-old Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs delivered the greatest pitching performance of World Series history today when he held the Detroit Tigers to a single hit and turned them back, 3 to 0, in the third game of the 1945 classic.

Only Rudy York's clean single to left field in the second inning deprived 55,500 spectators of the thrill of a no-hit, no-run showing by the slender veteran from Lucedale, Miss. Only one other Tiger reached first, on a walk to Bob Swift in the sixth inning, and he was wiped out on a double play.

Control Faultless
Only 28 American league batters faced Passeau's sharp curve and medium fast ball as he hurled the Cubs into a 2-1 lead in games won and sent them joyously homeward tonight for the remaining contests necessary to wind up the series.

The only World Series performance even more challenging Passeau's brilliant feat was turned in by Ed Reulbach of the Chicago Cubs of 1906, when he limited the White Sox to one safety and beat them, 7 to 1.

Reulbach, however, issued six passes against the single walk hit by Passeau today. Also, he hit one batter and delivered a wild pitch, so his game, though undeniably brilliant, scarcely equalled the gem seen at Briggs stadium today.

Passeau, who, ironically, is a former chattel of the Detroit farm system, was not particularly fast. His control, however, was magnificent, and his curve seldom failed to slice off the corner Passeau had in mind. So thoroughly did he keep the Tigers under control that there scarcely was a difficult chance for a Chicago fielder. In the final inning, for instance, two Detroit pinch-hitters could not get a ball out of the infield.

Crowd Cheers Victor
When the enemy pitcher came up to bat for himself in the final inning, the crowd—biggest ever to see a World Series game in Detroit—stood up almost in a body and gave Passeau the tremendous cheer he deserved. When the last Tiger batter popped to end the game, the Chicago club stormed out and almost carried their cool ace into the dressing room.

From the fourth inning on, Passeau wove his spell over the Tigers behind an adequate lead, his mates having swung on Frank "Stubby" Overmire, the Detroit starter, for three hits and two runs in that inning. Al Benton, his successor, yielded another tally in the seventh when Mickey Livingston doubled, Roy Hughes sacrificed and Passeau drove a long fly into center field.

As a club, the National leaguers fielded and ran the sacks in a manner to show their appreciation of Passeau's pitching. For the third straight game they did not commit an error, and Phil Cavarretta made one really brilliant play on a ball smashed to him at first. The Tigers, on the other hand, cracked under the strain, and Skeeter Webb and Eddie Mayo each committed a bobbie in the late innings to spoil any possibility of a perfectly fielded classic.

Lowrey Starts Shooting
Again the National leaguers proved that southpaw pitching holds for them no terrors. It took them a little longer to begin bounding Overmire around, than it did to get Hal Newhouse on his way to the showers in the opener, but they did it impressively once they set to work.

Peanuts Lowrey opened their winning rally in the fourth on a double off the left field wall at the 340-foot mark just inside the foul line. Cavarretta then laid down the first of three perfect Cubs' sacrifices of the game, sending Lowrey to third, Andy Pakko walked on four wide pitches, and Nicholson dropped a single just over Webb's head at shortstop to bring Lowrey home with what proved to be the only run Passeau needed.

Roy Hughes brought Pakko in with the second score a few minutes later when he dropped a similarly weak but effective single over Mayo's head into short right field. Livingston's double off the right field wall, another sacrifice and Passeau's long fly to Cramer in center field produced the last Cub run in the seventh. Hack got a double later in the inning, but died on base.

Hack, the Chicago third baseman, fast was proving himself the hitting star of the series. His double and single today ran his total for the series to six hits in 13 official times at bat. Cavarretta had connected safely five times in 10 official tries.

Bengals Too Slow
Detroit, loaded pretty heavily with slow-footed veterans, demonstrated once again that it cannot hit the class of pitchers represented by Passeau, Roy Cullenbine, the club's right fielder, went hitless for the third straight series game.

Braves Meet Marquette On Gladstone Gridiron

Seeking their third victory in as many games, the Gladstone high school Braves will clash with the Marquette Gravelers at Marquette Athletic Field at Gladstone this afternoon.

It will be the fourth game for the Braves. Odds favor the Keilmens. Marquette nosed out Munising 13-6 while Gladstone trimmed the Alger eleven, 31-2. Marquette also won from Newberry 13-12 and lost to Ishpeming 19-12, while Gladstone in its other game trimmed Manistiquie, 41-0.

With but a single exception the Braves will be at top strength for the battle today. LeGault, left halfback, sustained an ankle injury which hasn't responded too well to treatment this week and there is a possibility that he will not be able to play. In this event, Lavelle will be shifted from right half to left and Don Soderman will go in at right halfback.

With the one possible exception, Coach Eldon Keil is sticking to the lineup selected for the opening game. Namely, Gillis, left end; Jugo, left tackle; Quantstrom, left guard; Erickson, center; Rose, right guard; Timmer, right tackle; Thivierge, right end; Engstrom, quarterback; LeGault, left halfback; LaVelle, right halfback; and Capt. Haglund, fullback.

In the Marquette starting lineup will be, Ryan, center; Sandell and Thibodeau, tackles; Chubb and Saari, guards; Aartila and Dorais, ends; Vashaw, quarterback; Versailles and Pantelone, halfbacks; and Mineau, fullback. The game will start at 2 o'clock and is to be handled by Hiney, Vanni and Rudness.

Emeralds To Play Newberry
Records Are Similar—Each Has Won One And Lost Two

Encouraged by the fact that in Newberry they are meeting a team with a record similar to their own, Manistiquie's Emeralds journeyed there today, confident that their past shortcoming will not be quite so noticeable.

Newberry, like Manistiquie, has won one game and lost two. It handled Munising in fairly impressive fashion, but lost heavily to Negaunee and Marquette. Dopers figure the chances 50-50.

Glaring weaknesses in Manistiquie's defense, revealed in last Saturday's game with Gladstone, have received persistent attention from Coach Reque during the past week and improvement is guaranteed.

U. P. Grid Schedule
Menominee at Escanaba, Marquette at Gladstone, Manistiquie at Newberry, Stephenson at Munising, Soo, Ont., at Soo, Mich., Iron Mountain at Norway, Iron River at Niagara.

* Ishpeming at Negaunee.
* Hurley at Ironwood.
* St. Joseph at Kingsford.
* Friday night games.

One of the world's highest waterfalls, 2,000 feet, is at Kunkana, British Giana. Niagara is 167 feet high.

Weather Misty
His sparkling performance might have been aided a little by the weather, which was dim and misty after a solid morning of rain. Traditionally such weather is supposed to help a pitcher, particularly a fast-baller, but there was little evidence it helped Overmire, who was working from the same mound.

Manager Charlie Grimm of the supposedly confident Cubs announced before taking off for Chicago that he would throw Ray Prim, a lefthander who won 13 and lost 8 during the season, against the Bengals in tomorrow's fourth game at Wrigley field. For Detroit it was supposed to be Paul Dizzy Trout, the speedballer who won 27 games last year but fell off the past season to a record of 18 wins against 15 losses.

Trout was in very poor form toward the end of the campaign, getting almost nobody out in his last four or five tries, and it could cause no great surprise if Manager Steve O'Neill should change his mind and send his ace, Hal Newhouse, back for another shot at the National leaguers. Newhouse couldn't do any worse than he did two days ago in the opener and he might do better.

Maimed Veterans Provide Drama At Detroit's Stadium

BY JERRY LISKA
Detroit, Oct. 5 (AP)—The real drama at the third World Series game today was in the grandstand—a heart-touching scene touched off when 300 battle-maimed veterans were wheeled and carried to seats donated by generous fans.

It was a spontaneous gesture of fan homage to veterans from Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek, Mich., who had been completely overlooked in the parceling of tickets.

An appeal for tickets was made yesterday and today more than 500 fans volunteered to surrender their precious duets.

In they came—cases of double amputees and lads otherwise hacked by shell-fire—to root and toot for their champions.

Widest-eyed among the youthful veterans was Private Paul Lewis, 20, Bay City, Mich., minus his left leg. He sat in Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler's box as Mrs. Chandler and her two daughters graciously took a back seat.

Starting incredibly as he shook hands with Chandler and Mayors Kelly of Chicago and Frank Hague of Jersey City, also in the commissioner's box, young Lewis stammered:

"This is wonderful! It's hard to believe. I'm pulling for those Tigers, you can bet."

The minute Johnny McHale fowl popped out to end the game and give square-jawed Claude Passeau his brilliant one-hitter, the Cub pitcher was swarmed by his teammates. First to embrace him wildly was First Sacker Phil Cavarretta. Passeau, himself, headed straight for Catcher Mickey Livingston and gave him a hug, while the rangy receiver did his best to return the compliment.

The Tigers, literally speaking, sent a little guy to do a big job and Frankie Overmire, smallest player in the series at 5 feet, 7 inches, wasn't quite up to it.

Big Hank Greenberg, whose three-run homer saved the Tiger day yesterday, did a little bit of strutting his first time at bat. He swung and missed the first pitch Passeau served him, stepped out of the box and shook his head as though it was pretty much an accident. It wasn't. Claude whiffed him on a 3-2 pitch that time and got him on fly-balls the next two trips.

Wonder what the boys at Joe's Tavern in Chicago think today after sending Manager Charlie Grimm this telegram:

"We accept your resignation for pitching to Greenberg (in the second game). Why didn't you walk him?"

Grimm also has been stormed with telegrams from Puerto Rico, the home of Pitcher Hi Bithorn, recently discharged from the navy. One said: "When are you going to use Bithorn? Bithorn will not defraud you."

The limousine speeding Commissioner Chandler, Vice President Walter Briggs, Jr., of the Tigers, and H. G. Salsinger, sports editor of the Detroit News, to the ball park ran out of gas. Briggs flagged down a taxi and, flanked by two police motorcycles, sirens screaming, the trio resumed the race.

Owner Fred Mandel of the Detroit Lions football team stuck with his home town during the three games here. A resident of Chicago, Mandel was perched directly behind the Cub bench.

Commissioner Chandler received a letter here simply addressed to Briggs Stadium with a head snapshot of himself pasted between the letters "HAP" and "PY".

Cub bench visitor was Charlie Moran, the old National League umpire and coach of Centre College's famed "Pravin" Colonels.

The Shelby N. C. team that recently won the National American Legion championship visited both the Tigers and Cubs before the game. A sailor with two artificial legs did a hornpipe dance to the accompaniment of the Center Field band to bring down the house in the bleachers.

Chicago Odds 7-20 To Capture Series
St. Louis, Oct. 5 (AP)—Betting Commissioner James J. Carroll rated the Chicago Cubs today as the World Series favorites at 7-20 odds, or a win of $7 on a $20 wager. Odds on the Detroit Tigers for the series are 11-5.

For the series' fourth game at Chicago the Tigers are even money to win with Dizzy Trout pitching and the Cubs with Ray Prim on the mound at 4-5 favorites, a $4 win on a $5 wager.

FLIVVERS BEAT TROJANS, 45-0

St. Joseph Team Outclassed By Kingsford Squad

Kingsford, Oct. 6 (AP)—Kingsford bounced back from a 6 to 0 defeat at the hands of Iron River to wallop St. Joseph of Escanaba, 45 to 0, tonight in a night football game at the Kingsford field.

The Flivvers used three full teams during the game and the visitors, outweighted and outclassed, never had a chance after the first quarter.

Chapman scored the first touchdown for Kingsford in the opening quarter on a 10 yard run around left end. On the first play of the second period, Simons scored on a two plunge through left guard and a pass, Chapman to Radloff, accounted for the extra point. Pera, sub fullback, scored the third touchdown, also in the second period, on a plunge from the four yard line and Joe Christensen kicked the extra point.

Two more touchdowns were added in the third quarter, the first by Chapman on a three yard line smash, and the second by McGuire on a six yard dash.

McGuire intercepted a St. Joseph pass on the Trojans' 19 yard line in the fourth period and ran the ball back to the goal for the sixth touchdown. Pera added the extra point on a line plunge.

The final touchdown was scored by Ed Smalley, third string halfback, who broke away for a 35 yard dash through left guard. Christensen kicked the point to conclude the scoring for the evening.

The Trojans passed mid-field only once. In the second period they ran up four consecutive first downs to advance from their own 27 yard line to the Kingsford 20, where the drive failed when Oshtesky intercepted Ramspeck's pass.

Kingsford scored 15 first downs to four for St. Joseph and gained 348 yards on running plays to 54 for St. Joseph. The Trojans fumbled five times and all were recovered by Kingsford.

Wylie Announces Reserve Lineup For Prelim Game
Coach Henry Wylie yesterday announced the starting lineup for his Eskymo Reserves against the Menominee Reserves in a preliminary game today at the Escanaba-Menominee varsity battle at the athletic field. The reserve teams will kick off at 12:30 o'clock.

Warren Carlson has been designated game captain and will start at left end; L. Johnson, lt; P. James, lg; Sundelius, c; Kahl, rg; Svalind, rt; Cota, re; R. Johnson, qb; Belanger, rh; Lindstrom, lb; Judson, fb. The second team lineup, which probably also will be used in the game, includes Gardner and R. Anderson, ends; Van Enkevort and Jensen, tackles; Larson and Deent, guards; Miller, c; G. Anderson, qb; Deane and Lough, halfbacks; Walch, fullback.

More Deer Promised Michigan Hunters
Lansing, Oct. 5 (AP)—More deer for Michigan hunters this season in 32 counties north of the Muskegon-Bay City line was estimated today by the State Conservation Department.

Increases have been noted in 25 Lower Peninsula and seven Upper Peninsula counties. The season for rifle hunting opens Nov. 15 while the bow and arrow season started last Monday.

The increase can be attributed to the mild weather the last two winters holding down the number of deaths from starvation and a normal fawn crop, the department said. Last year 228,261 licensed hunters took 70,912 bucks during the season.

There are several dozen football rules violations for which penalties are assessed, but there are not official signals established for all of them. It would be impractical to devise a different signal for every foul because it would only serve to confuse the fans and would certainly be incongruous for the referee who, even now, looks silly enough going through the gyrations specified by the official code.

Some of the signals are natural enough, such as the signal for pass interference which the referee denotes by an outward thrust of his hands from his chest. Another perfectly natural signal is grasping of one wrist to indicate holding.

There are, however, several signals that are distinctly unnatural and which officials dislike because they are so ridiculous in appearance. The signal for illegal forward pass, for instance, is one that is a source of much gripping among officials. To indicate this foul, the referee turns his back to the bleachers and waves his hand behind his back. It looks like the referee is playing peek-a-boo with the crowd and if the fans are hostile, it provides an excellent chance for a good old Bronx cheer. Another unnatural

Bengals Are Great Bunch Of Misfits
BY WHITNEY MARTIN
Detroit, Oct. 5 (AP)—It's a wonder these Detroit Tigers got into the world series at all. They're just a bunch of corks in wrong bottles.

There isn't a player in the regular lineup who is playing in the same position in which he started to play baseball, and if the club ever suffered from mass amnesia and the guys all returned to their original positions there'd be the darndest mixup out there you ever saw.

Rudy York and Roy Cullenbine would be stumbling over each other around second base. Eddie Mayo and Paul Richards would be eyeing each other balefully at third base. Doc Cramer would be shoving Hal Newhouse and Virgil Trucks and Stubby Overmire off the mound.

Some of the men played so many other positions before winding up in their present locations they have to carry identification cards so they can be steered back to where they belong if caught wandering out there not knowing where they belong.

Reading from left to right these transients are:
First baseman Rudy York, who started out as a second baseman and catcher; third baseman Jimmy Outlaw, a displaced shortstop; second baseman Eddie Mayo, originally a third baseman; shortstop Skeeter Webb, a refugee catcher; Paul Richards, who played third base then moved around the infield from left to right; Hank Greenberg, a fugitive from first base; Roy Cullenbine, a second baseman and catcher, and Doc Cramer, who was a pitcher, and a good one.

How each became transposed would make an individual story in itself. Richards says that in his case he wound up as catcher largely through accident. That and because he was so nonchalant in the infield everybody thought he was a lazy bum, and not trying.

"I'd give it all I had," he says, "but with my style it looked like I wasn't trying. I wasn't getting anywhere, and when I was with Macon they wanted to send me to a Florida club and I didn't want to go. Macon needed a catcher so I told them I'd stay and catch. That's all there was to it."

Richards and outfielder Charley Hostetler, incidentally, are two of baseball's leading Marco Polos, and at times in their long careers they'd switch clubs so often they'd catch themselves saying: "I'm with Minneapolis, wasn't I?" They practically changed towns between innings.

In fact, Doc Cramer, after listening incredulously to a recital of their traveltologies, put up a standing reward of $25 for the name of any player in organized baseball the last 20 years, exclusive of the war years which saw an influx of new talent, broadly speaking, whom Richards or Hostetler had not played with or against.

"They've come up with some tough ones," Richards says, "but they haven't stumped us yet."

Richards is in his 20th years of baseball, and at an age when a lot of players are beginning to think in the past tense as their joints twang like a banjo every time they move, he says he never felt better in his life.

"I'll quit when they cut the uniform off me," he says. "I love the Florida club and I didn't want to go long, would I?" which is true enough, although a lot of guys are in jail for that long with no particular affection for it.

CLOSE BATTLE IS INDICATED

Kickoff At 2:00; Reserve Teams Play Prelim At 12:30

The 49th annual battle of the Escanaba and Menominee high school football teams will be fought at the Escanaba athletic field this afternoon in a game that highlights the week's Upper Peninsula grid schedule. The battle will get underway at two o'clock, but will be preceded by a game between the reserve teams of the two schools, starting at 12:30.

Both teams are undefeated in Upper Peninsula football competition and today's game will have a distinct bearing on both teams' bid for peninsula grid honors. The Maroons lost to Shawano, 7-6, in the season's opener but that game does not figure in the Upper Peninsula rankings. Last week Menominee team vanquished powerful Soo eleven, 19 to 15.

The Eskymos have marked up two impressive victories in the past two weeks after opening the season with a 13-13 tie with the Soo Blue Devils. Following that game, the Eskymos walloped Ironwood, 21 to 0, and Norway, 34 to 0.

Starting Lineup Announced
Coach George Ruchow yesterday announced one lineup in the starting lineup. Lee has been sidelined by injuries and his guard position will be filled by Wylie, who is also a veteran lineman. The complete starting lineup follows:

Dufour, lg; Weir, lt; Wylie, rt; Scott, c; Chapekis, rg; L. Finn, rt; J. Finn, re; Schils, qb; Peterson, lf; Ross, rh; and Wickholm, fb.

The Eskymos will get a look at the T formation today when they meet the Maroons. Coach Mickey McCormick has installed the T system at Menominee and the Stachelers have taken to it like a duck takes to water. They do not use men in motion frequently off the formation and they have a few variations. Against the Soo last week, the Maroons displayed a hard running attack, coupled with a dangerous passing combination. Moreover, they have been advancing warning that they are coming to Escanaba with blood in their eyes and a determination to puncture the Eskymos undefeated record.

The game undoubtedly will be witnessed by the season's largest crowd, particularly if weather conditions that have prevailed the past few days continues to game time. Menominee will bring a large rooting section to Escanaba and the advance sale of tickets here guarantees a large audience.

Officials will be Treado, Wassberg and Goldsworthy, all of Negaunee.

UPSWING FELT BY SPECIALTIES
BY VICTOR EUBANK
New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Specialties with good price-time prospects continued to monopolize most of the trading in today's stock market where many leaders suffered more from a lack of selling pressure than from Government seizure of strike-bound oil plants and the order for the advance of workers helped Standard Oil, J. and T. Co., both of which were up more than a point.

The somewhat murky labor situation remained as a cautionary influence. Investment contingents as did the thought of a further technical correction.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 3 of a point at 71.6, equaling its peak since April, 1937. The advance came on the heels of a point to a top since March 11, 1937. Of 955 issues appearing, 454 gained, 294 lost and 221 were unchanged.

In front were Johns-Manville, up three on a few sales; Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Woolworth, Teletograph, American Can and Republic Aviation. Casualties included Baltimore & Annapolis, Railway, Youngstown Sheet, American Telephone, Westinghouse, Boeing, a gleamed on a 101 5-8; Public Service of N. J. and U. S. Gypsum.

RAIL GAINS SHADEN
New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Medium-priced rails found support in a slightly more active bond market today but demand near the close and gains were shaded.

A number of industrials and utilities scored advances of a point or more in quiet dealings. Some lines tended lower.

Sales climbed to a total of $6,100,000 for the day, compared with turnover of $5,335,000 on Thursday.

On higher ground at the close were St. Paul, up 1 1/2; Great Northern, 86 1/2; Burlington Cedar Rapids and Northern, 81 1/2; Rio Grande, 48 1/2; Childs Co., 56 1/2; 1937 with a 2 1/2 point advance to 101 5-8; New England Telephone, up 1 3/8 at 114; St. Louis-San Francisco 4 1/2, up 3-8 at 104; Boston and Maine 4 1/2, up 5-8 at 73 1/8.

Losers included New York Central, down 3-8 at 89 7-8; Big Four 4 1/2, down 3-8 at 82 1/2; Great Northern 8 1/2, down 1/2 at 102. International Great Northern first six climbed a point to 75, but the St. Paul lost 1/2.

A flurry of activity in the foreign dollar section sent all Chilean bonds to new highs for the year, several with gains of 1/2 to 2 1/2 for the day. Other sections of this division were irregular.

U. S. governments were quiet with small changes.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE
New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Closing foreign exchange rates follow: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents: Canadian dollar in New York open market 10 per cent discount on U. S. cents, 96 1/2; a cent lower. Europe: Great Britain 4.03 3-8, 1-8 of a cent lower. Argentina free 24 1/

BELL WORKERS OFF 4 HOURS

Phone Service Here Is Maintained By Supervisory Staff

Switchboard operators and plant department employees of the Bell Telephone company in Escanaba remained off their jobs from one to five o'clock yesterday afternoon, as a part of a nation-wide protest by the National Federation of Telephone Workers against a National Labor Relations Board order to disestablish a local union of the NFWA at Kearny, N. J.

Although the Escanaba walkout was 100 per cent, telephone service was maintained throughout the four-hour period by supervisory personnel, who manned the switchboards when the operators left.

"Due to generous cooperation of our subscribers in placing only the most necessary calls during the four-hour period, we were able to handle the telephone load adequately," George Marcouiller, manager of the Bell Telephone company in Escanaba, reported.

Three supervisors handled the switchboard during the four-hour period, replacing eleven operators normally assigned to the afternoon shift. Less than half of the normal load of calls were placed during the period.

The two Escanaba locals of the NFWA, the traffic and plant divisions, held a joint meeting at the Sherman hotel yesterday afternoon during the four-hour protest walkout.

Normal service was resumed at five o'clock.

The walkout did not affect telephone service at Gladstone, or other areas where dial installations have been made.

KELSEY-HAYES STRIKERS END OLD WALKOUT

the department Monday at Washington.

He cited the 30 per cent wage increase demands as the primary issue in the "labor dispute" between Ford Motor Co. and the union, affecting some 145,000 Ford workers.

The Smith-Connally Act provides for a strike vote within 30 days after filing of notice.

Strike votes among 325,000 General Motors Corp. employees in 96 plants will be taken Oct. 24 and among 100,000 Chrysler Corporation workers on Oct. 25.

Leonard said contract negotiations between Ford and the union would be resumed Nov. 1.

Policemen Disperse Buenos Aires Riot; Sabres Slash Two

Buenos Aires, Oct. 5 (AP)—Mounted policemen, firing their revolvers in the air, today charged a crowd of women demonstrating against the arrest of striking students, injuring one demonstrator and a man who went to her aid.

The incident occurred as about 500 women attempted to enter the Central Plaza Mayo in front of the government palace. The two injured were cut down by sabers, and others were removed by police.

Simultaneously, the Argentine supreme court was reported to have dealt a blow at the country's military government by ruling illegal President Edelmiro Farrell's decree dismissing Federal Judge Barraco Marmol of Cordoba.

Mormol had defied the government by ordering the rector and five professors of Cordoba University taken from a train bringing them to Buenos Aires under arrest.

These developments following smashing of a week-old university strike against the government and the jailing of 1,500 boys and girls.

Power Is Misused By Labor Unions; GM President Says

Chicago, Oct. 5 (AP)—Charles E. Wilson, Detroit, president of General Motors Corp., declared today labor unions are "using monopolistic power" as a "tool of aggression" to promote industrial strife, rather than to safeguard the rights and equities of workmen.

In an address to the Executives Club of Chicago, Wilson said the public interest was "being completely overlooked" in the nation's widespread labor disputes situation.

Assistant To State Secretary Requests Rest From Duties

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Frank McCarthy is expected to discuss with Secretary Byrnes in the next few days whether or not McCarthy should continue in the state department.

McCarthy has told friends in the last several weeks that he is badly in need of a rest. He came to the state department job from an army assignment as secretary of the general staff and has had no relief from official duties for several years.

His doctors are understood to have advised him while Byrnes was in London that he should have a thorough rest. He deferred a decision on whether to resign or simply take leave from the state department until Byrnes returned from the foreign ministers meeting in London.

McCarthy, 33, one of the youngest men to be appointed to a top state department job, was nominated by President Truman Aug. 21 to succeed Julius C. Holmes, resigned.

Two-Year-Old Snubs U. S. Senate Leader

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Two-year-old Frances Hoover, whose daddy is a soldier in the Philippines, snubbed Senate Majority Leader Barkley today.

A "visitor" in the outer office of Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle, Miss Hoover was scribbling memoranda on a scratch pad when the Kentucky senator entered.

"Come here, honey," Barkley invited.

Frances gave him a cool look.

"Too busy," she said, returning to her work.

FUEL FAMINE ENDS

Detroit, Oct. 5 (AP)—Oil refinery workers in the Detroit area tonight voted to end their strike following navy seizure of the Socony-Vacuum Company plant in suburban Trenton.

Spokesmen for Local 389 of the International Oil Workers Union (CIO) promised to have gasoline in the tanks of all Detroit gasoline stations within 48 hours.

Employees of the Pure Oil Refinery at Midland, Mich., and the Petroleum Products Refinery at Flat Rock, Mich., also said they would abide by back-to-work orders issued by O. A. Knight, national president of the oil workers' union.

Members of the Refiners, transport and Terminal Unit of Local 389 withheld action on the back-to-work move until Saturday.

They struck in sympathy with the 3,400 oil workers who walked out in Michigan.

Crowded Navy Bus And Truck Collide; 5 Dead, 30 Injured

Santa Rosa, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP)—Five persons were killed and more than 30 injured tonight when a fully loaded Navy bus and an Army truck crashed head-on on the Redwood highway two miles south of Petaluma.

The truck plowed ten feet into the crumpled bus, carrying workers home from Mare Island Navy yard at Vallejo, killing two persons in the bus and the three soldier occupants of the truck.

Coroner Vernon Silvershield identified the dead as including: James R. Branhart, Acosta, Pa., a Hamilton Field soldier.

Charles Shelton, Plattsville, Ala., also from Hamilton Field.

An unidentified woman who died at Hamilton Field base hospital.

The bus driver, William Mueckolls, of Santa Rosa, escaped with slight injuries although the truck rammed past his seat to the fourth row of seats.

Twenty-five of the injured were taken to the Petaluma hospital and three to the Sonoma county hospital here.

A fire that broke out when the vehicles crashed was quickly extinguished.

An unidentified army doctor and three civilian physicians took charge of the rescue efforts.

Some of the passengers were trapped in the bus and were not freed until a fire truck pulled the crushed vehicles apart.

Cornell Resident Hurt In Three-Way Car Mixup Friday

Mrs. Allen Way of Cornell was brought to St. Francis hospital for treatment of injuries last night following a collision of two automobiles and a truck near the Escanaba river underpass on highway US 2-41. Mrs. Way was shaken up and bruised.

The mixup involved automobiles driven by J. G. Steinmetz of Escanaba and Allen Way of Cornell and a Swanson Bros. truck from Manistique, driven by Carl W. Knuth. According to information gathered by state police, the truck, going north, attempted to pass the Steinmetz and Way cars but was forced to swing back to avoid another car coming from the other direction, and sideswiped the Steinmetz car, then hitting the rear of the auto driven by Mr. Way, who was ahead of Steinmetz. The accident occurred at 6:20 p. m.
